Thank you for sharing Bernie. Please let Brad know, that we are grateful and appreciate his years of service, collaboration and partnership with us here at the IRS. My interactions with Brad, during the Security Summit, demonstrated a commitment and energy that made our partnership a huge success. Knowing that he will continue as the Executive Chairman, means that this is not good bye, but a new opportunity for us to find innovative ways to help build a stronger tax ecosystem.

I look forward to working with Sasan as well and hope to see each other in person soon. Please extend our congratulations.

Thanks as always Bernie, talk soon.

Subject: Some Intuit news today

Hi Ken and Terry,

I wanted to share some news that we announced today. We shared succession plans for our CEO Brad Smith. After 10 years as CEO, Brad has decided to step down on Jan. 1 and will become the Executive Chairman of Intuit's board of directors. This has been something Brad has planned for some time with a very thoughtful multi-year succession plan.

Sasan Goodarzi, who currently leads Intuit's Small Business and Self-Employed Group, has been named Intuit's next CEO. Sasan has led each of our major businesses, including both our Consumer and Professional tax software business units, and previously served as well as our CIO, so he has great Intuit experience. You can read more in today's press release.

I wanted to share this news with you both personally. Brad has been an amazing leader and we are thankful that he will serve on as our Executive Chairman. We are also excited for Sasan and will look forward to his engagement going forward. Intuit is as deeply committed going forward as we have been in the past to our Summit, ISAC and Free File public-private partnerships with the IRS and look forward to the future.

Please let me know if you have any questions!

Best regards,

Bernie
